2. The sides of the vessels were painted dark grey with dark-blue distinguishing marks. They carried a small gun forward and a 20-mm AA gun aft. They flew the black-red-and-yellow flag having a white ball in the center with an unidentified dark sign in the white ball. Two large dark-gray life rafts were on the quarterdeck and a life raft, painted red and white, was suspended to one side of the bridge. *

It is believed that they are sea police vessels assigned to the border police to intensify the patrol service in the Eastern German three-mile zone along the Baltic coast.
